PERFORMANCE:

The powerful Naish Redline offers full slalom racing performance without the hassle of a wide sleeve. Thanks to new shaping technology that has allowed us to build the record breaking Stealth with just seven battens, the new Redline is able to share 100% of Stealth development for blistering straight line speed while still provide easy handling for the week end warrior thanks to it's mid width sleeve and light weight.

WHAT'S NEW:

- Ongoing Development: For 2009, thanks to a shared platform and internal shaping, the Redline incorporates nearly all of the design innovations that make the new Stealth our best race sail ever.
- Light weight Composite Sleeve: A new sleeve design uses scrim in the high stress areas for a cleaner leading edge and improved rotation.
- 2nd Generation 3D Shaping: originally developed for the 2008 Stealth, this shaping technique results in nearly limitless top end control due to increased twist at the lower leech, while a deeper entry and chord in the boom area improves low end acceleration and early planing.
- All New Tack Faring: This new design adds 360 degree protection at the base and an easy-to-use velcro closure while retaining the unique Naish 'fold back' feature for quick, uncomplicated rigging.
- New Head Protector: In a continuing effort to make sure that every finish detail on Naish sails leads the industry, we have developed a new low profile head protector.
